

For more information, visit artsandhealth.duke.edu or call 919.684.6124

Steven will be at the Morrison Exhibit Space weekly during his exhibit to sell and discuss his work.

Wednesdays, 11 am – 1 pm

These events are free and open to the public.

Morrison Exhibit Space,
Duke Clinics, near 1D

Steven Ray Miller – Duke HeARTist

January 17 –
March 7, 2018

Steven Ray Miller is an accomplished artist specializing in watercolor and, and in recent years, acrylic painting on glass. Miller graduated from Duke University with a dual degree in Studio Art and Psychology.

Miller has exhibited throughout the United States in more than 100 one-man shows and in 45 juried competitions. His creations are found in prominent art collections, on television and on the covers of national publications.

In many of his works, Miller uses hearts, symbols of connection. “I put hearts in my paintings to bring the viewer in for a closer look. Hearts help us to share the feelings of love and hope that connect us all.”